

New Music Zine

The best in new music news...

Back to Main Page

Recent Entries

Triumph And Parade - Carve Your Own Path

Wednesday, April 22, 2009

Pilot Speed Listening Party

Tuesday, April 21, 2009

Contemporary Music Week at The Kennedy Center In Washington, DC \(May 1 - 10, 2009\)

Saturday, April 18, 2009

Pilot Speed - Wooden Bones

Friday, April 17, 2009

Azure - When She Smiles

Friday, April 17, 2009

Manchester Orchestra - Mean Everything To Nothing

Wednesday, April 15, 2009

LACUNA COIL Tour Dates

Wednesday, April 15, 2009

Jimmy Buffet's SUMMERZCOOL tour dates

Wednesday, April 15, 2009

Has Miles Stiebel Created His Own Genre?...

Posted by editor at 3/25/2009 7:10 PM

Categories: Contemporary Jazz/Pop

Tags: Miles Stiebel

Has Miles Stiebel created his own genre?

Its quite an amazing thing when a musician can take a sound and put it where it would normally not belong and make it sound completely at home. It is the mark of creative genius- a true artist.

Miles Stiebel has taken the violin to new heights and combined it with the more traditional jazzy instruments and made it work so well, its a wonder it hasnt been done more often. It seems as though he has stolen the spotlight away from the guitar and doesn't want to give it back.

Dont give it back! I say this sound has taken too long to get here and needs to stick around awhile. Excellent Distraction is produced by Bob Dawson and Miles Stiebel. Visit www.milesstiebel.com for more information on this fine artist.